

by Philipp Moog July 2008 / 189pp Fiction

This book is outside of the five-year window for guaranteed assistance with English language translation. We suggest getting in touch with the relevant funding body for an informal conversation about the possibility of support. Please refer to to our recommendations page for books that are currently covered by our funding guarantee.

Life

Lebenslänglich

review

The setting of this stylish first thriller is Munich and the killer, through whose diary the story is told, is a short, fat, bank teller with thinning red hair and piggy features, full of pathological selfloathing and a misfit both outside the bank and within. Hopelessly he lusts after two pretty female colleagues, but the only person who lusts after him is, unfortunately, the sexually aggressive Marlene, whose bawdy physicality and insistent pleas he finds repulsive. Right from the start of the book the reader knows he is in sure authorial hands, debut effort though this is, as the first of the bank teller's victims disappears over a precipice, helped on his way by a hefty clunk on the back of the head with a rock. It is one of the pretty girls' boyfriends, and the other's will soon be dead, too.

Inevitably the police investigations reach the bank, and as the circle of suspicion is about to narrow down to the narrator, Marlene, in a last-ditch attempt to cement their relationship, throws him an alibi.

With its claustrophobic settings, skilfully ambiguous ending and terrific pacing, this page-turner's a winner.

about the author

Philipp Moog was born in 1961. An actor and screenwriter, this is his first novel. He lives in Munich.

rights information

DuMont Buchverlag GmbH & Co. KG

new books in german 1/2

Amsterdamer Straße 192 50735 Cologne, Germany

Tel: +49 221 2241942

E: habermas@dumont-buchverlag.de

Contact: Judith Habermas www.dumontverlag.de

DuMont Buchverlag was founded in 1956. Stressing the link between literature and art, the firm focuses both on these subjects and also, more recently, on general nonfiction. Its authors include John von Düffel, Michel Houellebecq, Helmut Krausser, Martin Kluger, Judith Kuckart, Thomas Kling, Annette Mingels, Haruki Murakami, Charlotte Roche, Claude Simon, Edward St. Aubyn, Tilman Rammstedt, Raphael Urweider, and Dirk Wittenborn.

new books in german 2/2